

Thomas Doerr, “Freudensprung” (Leap of Joy), 2025

Colorless transparent Bohemian lead glass (40% PbO), art casting

30 × 26 × 18 cm

In Freudensprung, vitality, dynamism, and dance condense into sculptural movement. Rotations dissolve, bodies encounter one another—or is it a single figure preparing for a leap into freedom? The artist’s personal experience in air sports provides a vital source of inspiration.

The sculpture also serves as a basis for light and color interactions: introduced through its four feet, a play of reflection and refraction unfolds, generating ever-new visual surprises.

Suitable for exhibitions dedicated to pure glass art as well as for curated light installations. Scalable and reproducible in a wide range of materials and dimensions, up to a walk-in large-scale sculpture.
